

Etymology of Mochitests

It's interesting that inside of Mozilla most people call mochitests "mohkee tests". I believe this is because it is adjacent to the term "mocha tests", which is pronounced with the hard k sound. However, the testing infrastructure is named after the delicious Japanese treat known as mochi. Mochi, pronounced like "moh chee" is a food that is made from pounding steamed rice into a soft elastic mass.
